*Fractional Jet Ownership
(FJO)*

As private jet travel popularity has increased in recent years, so has the number of options available to fly privately, including fractional jet ownership. You might be asking yourself, should you consider getting fractional jet ownership?

What Is Fractional Ownership?

The definition of fractional ownership is the percentage amount shared of an expensive asset. Shares of the expensive asset sell to multiple individual owners allowing the fractional owners to enjoy the asset's privileges.

Usually, in fractional ownership, a management company takes care of the asset for the owners. The owners pay a fee for the management and variable costs of using the asset.

In terms of private jet ownership, fractional ownership is in the private jet operated by an aviation company. The owners can typically use that aircraft or a comparable aircraft in the aviation company's fleet on demand for a predetermined number of hours annually.

How Does Luxury Service Milano Handle Fractional Ownership?

If you choose to become a fractional owner of a private jet through, you would be purchasing the share of an actual aircraft in our fleet. Shares start as small as 1/6 th of an airplane and can grow from there.

Initially, we ask for a five-year commitment from you, but you can go out early, just let us know and we will insert your share on the market.

There will be an amount due upfront to cover the ownership costs of the aircraft's . Following that will be a monthly fee covering your crew and maintenance costs, and lastly, an hourly fee charged upon each trip.

Why Malta?

There are two strong point that make Malta the perfect place :

1. The European Union has granted Malta and Ireland membership of the Capetown convention for the protection of registered movable property, such as yachts and airplanes. This concession is a guarantee for the owner of the property, which is why airlines and shipping companies are opening their offices in Malta.
